Will It Fit?

Channels + Handles

Channels are divided into two main categories: Standard and Wide Body

Standard

Wide Body

The two are NOT usually compatible. Each require different handles.

Clip Style + Clipless

Standard Channels are either clip style or clipless.

Clip Style: Clips on ends hold rubber in place.

Clipless: Teeth on handle grip rubber to hold it in place.

The two are NEVER compatible.

Rubber

There are two types of rubber: Rounded and T-Shaped. Squeegees and rubber on pages 3-4 are Rounded. Squeegees and Rubber on page 5 are T-Shaped.

The two are NEVER compatible.

Bleached vs Unbleached

We order sea sponges by the thousands and when possible, we order unbleached sponges. Most diving companies bleach their sponges lighter for the retail market because they look "prettier". This process weakens and shortens the life of sea sponges.

What Does That Mean?

Modular vs Telescopic

Modular poles fit together end to end. Telescopic poles extend and lock in place.

Pros: Carry just what you need
Cons: Restricted to specific lengths

Pros: Adjustable to any length
Cons: Carry the whole pole all the time

Material
Glass Fiber is economical and ideal for short lengths. For longer lengths, Carbon Fiber is necessary because it is stiffer and lighter. Hybrid is a blend of Glass Fiber and Carbon Fiber.

Fisk Descender

The Fisk Descender is the simplest, most effective descent control system ever designed. An easy to trust system designed for durability, thermal capacity and smooth flow. It allows 19" of working line to pass through the descender to implement friction as a gravity deterrent. It's use results in less wear on the working line. Each unit includes a training video. Meets or exceeds OSHA and ANSI standards. Weighs 1.8 lbs.

MIO Rope Grabs with Lanyards

MIO Rope Grabs exceed OSHA requirements for personal fall protection equipment. Once installed on rope, operation is hands-free when used in a self-trailing configuration. As the user moves up, the rope grab is towed by the lanyard. When moving down, the unit easily slides down the rope, while the cam automatically engages in the event of a fall. Tested and approved on PMI EZ Bend, PMI MAX Wear, and New England KMIII.

New England 1/2" Braided Safety Blue Rope

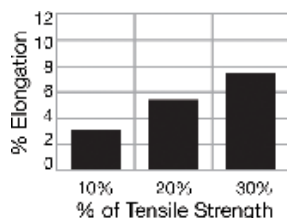

Braided Safety Blue is the industry standard 16-strand climbing rope that is engineered to stay round even after years of use. Unlike other 16-strand climbing ropes, Braided Safety Blue is made of sixteen strands, each of which is comprised of tightly plied polyester fiber over fibrillated polyolefin fibers. Adding the additional step of plied yarns results in a firmer, rounder, more durable strand -- and therefore a longer lasting rope. Skipping the plying process results in a rope that is more susceptible to snagging and abrasion. Also, fibrillated polyolefin, unlike monofilament polyolefin used in other 16-strand ropes, is much more pliable. The result is a rope that is more flexible, holds knots better, and won't develop a "memory". The entire rope is also treated with a special formula which enhances abrasion resistance.

Main Line or Safety Line

NEW ENGLAND ROPES

Built to the exacting EN1891 standard for static ropes, KMIII is the industry standard for rescue and rappelling operations. The kernmantle construction consists of a durable polyester cover over bundles of unidirectional nylon core yarns.

The polyester cover absorbs less water, has lower stretch, and is more abrasion resistant than the nylon covers found on some static ropes. The polyester cover and nylon core are balanced during the manufacturing to attain the ultimate in performance.

CE and NFPA certified.
